The morning was spent in giving and receiving gifts and in eating candies, fruit, etc., and at noon all were invited to the dining room which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The table was laden with all the luxuries.

Natural Pillows.

The pollack tree provides the natives of British Honduras with splendid material for pillows and mattresses. It is a common soft wood growth with a large pear shaped fruit, which has a hard shell, changing to almost black when ripe, and containing a short staple brown fluff or silk fiber. The fluff is about a quarter of an inch long, more like the finest of camel's hair than fiber, and is used extensively for filling pillows and mattresses. It will not become hard, even after years of service. The natives occasionally expose it to the sunlight for a day or two and put it back as good as ever.

Then She Smiled.

The tall, cheerful young man glanced up at the naughty blond behind the counter and smiled a sunny smile. "I beg pardon," said he, "but you don't care a thing for beauty, do you?" "Sir!" retorted the naughty blond. "How dare you! What do you mean?" "Oh, nothing very particular, only you've got a mirror right there behind you, and you've not looked into it once!"—New York Post.

Nervy Reply.

As they sat watching a sailboat out in the lake said he: "Can you tie a true lover's knot, Miss Willing?" Said she, "No, but I can give you the address of a clergyman who would be only too glad to oblige you, I'm sure."—Buffalo News.
